

Evangelistic Meetings

Attendance and interest in the evangelistic meetings being held by Root and Simmons in the tent on El Prado street are growing, and up to Wednesday evening 21 persons had responded to the invitation. These will form a nucleus around which a congregation will be established.

Evangelist Root announces his sermon topics for the coming week as follows: Sunday, 11 a. m., "Prayer That Works"; Sunday, 7:45 p. m., "Why I Believe the Bible"; Monday evening, "Rightly Dividing the Bible, or The Two Covenants" (a chart sermon); Tuesday evening, "God, the Father"; Wednesday evening, "Jesus Christ, the Son of God" (chart sermon); Thursday evening, "The Holy Spirit"; Friday evening, "What Is the Gospel?"

It will be noted that these sermons constitute a series of doctrinal studies. Come and study these great themes with us. We will bring the Bible message concerning each.

Mr. Simmons is pleasing all with his leadership of the music. There will be Bible school at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

The hymns and music at both services were chosen having in mind the death of President Harding. With the congregation reverently standing, the sad and solemn "Dead March in Saul" was played by the organist morning and evening. President Harding's favorite hymns, "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," were sung. Other hymns were "For All the Saints Who From their Labors Rest" and "How Firm a Foundation, Ye Saints of the Lord."

The pastor's morning text was "Let us therefore follow after the things which make for peace, and things wherewith one may edify another." Edify means to build. A house is an edifice, a building. One's character, faith, attitude toward and outlook upon life is an edifice. It may be broken down or built up. Jesus went about doing good. His work was to build up and not to destroy. Dr. Grenfell, the famous doctor of the Labrador coast, in addressing college students recently said: "We have each to determine whether the world is an arena where we fight to get what we can for ourselves, or a field of honor, where we give all we can for our fellowmen."

Stephen the Martyr was the subject of the evening sermon. Although Stephens was ordained with six other men as a deacon in the first Christian church, he became a mighty preacher of the Christian faith. The church today needs lay preachers and teachers who will stand by the ordained minister and help carry forward the work of the Kingdom.

The juniors will lead the singing next Sunday morning, and the pastor will speak on "Faith as a Prime Factor in Every Great Achievement." The talk Sunday evening will be on "The Last Scenes in the Life of Moses."

The Sunday school broke all records in attendance last Sunday morning. But there is room and there are classes for everybody else who will come. Mr. Hemmi will tell the rest of the story about George next Sunday.

The Junior Choral society—have you heard about it? Well, they are going to put on a Vesper service on Sunday evening, Aug. 26. We need about a dozen more boys and girls from 10 to 15 years to complete our number.

The new church is nearing completion, and plans are being made for dedication week. This will bring to Torrance an unusual array of brilliant talent. There are some very attractive features in this new church. Among them are the gymnasium, the boys' reading room, and shower baths. Now is the time for boys to get in on this.

Seven Hundred Hail Julian Monday Night

troleum corporation. The company will soon have erected a tank farm with a storage capacity of 3,000,000 barrels at Santa Fe Springs. The pipe line to the harbor will be ready in less than two months. The tank farm is rapidly nearing completion. The Julian wharfage at the harbor is capable, as Julian puts it, of letting two of the biggest tankers "drive up and park" and load on oil.

He'll Shoot Oil

"When that 12-inch pipe line is finished," said Julian, "I can sell all the oil it will carry at a profit of 50 cents a barrel. And I'll shoot them oil 'til Hell won't have it." The corporation's plans call for 60 service stations in Southern California, selling Julian's Defiance gasoline. Sites for 25 of them have already been purchased, Julian announced.

"I'll see that some of them are in Torrance, too," said Julian. "There will be real service, believe me. The boys will wipe off the windshield, brush off the dust, and even shine up your shoes, if necessary."

There Wells Near Here

Julian announced that the corporation will keep 12 rotary rigs drilling all of the time in proven territory alone. "Three of them will be drilling here in two weeks," he said. "My refinery, which I am proud to say will be built at your back door, will be the most efficient and up-to-date in the state. It won't be the biggest, because John D. and Mr. Doheny have got it on me a little—so far."

"I'm going to be proud someday," asserted Julian, "to say that I helped make Torrance the beautiful and prosperous city that I know it's going to be."

President Speaks

Carl Hyde, president of the Chamber of Commerce, opened the meeting with appropriate remarks, stressing the importance of the community's support to the Chamber of Commerce, which he characterized as a "melting pot of community ideas."

Mr. Hyde introduced C. A. Paxman, chairman of the Forum committee. Charles May, vice-president of the Torrance District Realty Board, outlined the progress made by that organization since its inception here, and set forth the ideals of the board.

Other Speakers

George Peckham, president of the Business Men's association, asserted that the association is big enough to take it for itself. So he said he'd let it do it without his making a speech. Mr. Welch, vice-president and general manager of the Dominguez Land corporation, spoke. He declared that the corporation has the interest and welfare of the city of Torrance at heart.

Charles Dorris then introduced Julian, outlining the big-heartedness and fairness of the man and laying stress on his series of outstanding successes in the oil industry.

Charles C. Garrison, another associate of Mr. Julian's, announced that the Julian corporation would take out ten memberships in the Torrance Chamber of Commerce.

Calls on ex-Presidents

Chairman Paxman then called on all former presidents of the Chamber of Commerce—George Frechter, Hurum Reeve, Postmaster Gourder. Mr. Reeve lauded the intent and success of the Forum meetings. He called attention to the pressing need of a definite program for the extension of the Torrance trading area, pleading for the co-operation of all civic bodies toward this end. He pointed out the vast importance of paving Western avenue at once, deploring the inadequate telephone system in the city and connecting the city with the outside territory. He likewise urged the paving of East Carson street to open up the vast trade area to the east of the city.

Boosts Bond Issues

Mr. Gourder urged the people to get behind the bond issues which will soon be placed before the people.

He later announced that carrier delivery probably would be instituted in Torrance within the next two months. In this connection the postmaster lauded Harry Godeky, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, for his untiring work for the city and his unusual ability to get things done.

Accompanying Mr. Julian were J. H. Roth, vice-president of the Julian Petroleum corporation, Charles C. Garrison, Charles L. Dorris, and C. A. Julian, brother of "C. C."

FIESTA NETS LEGION NEAT SUM OF $1200

With incomplete figures at hand, officers of the Bert Crossland post, American Legion, estimate that the organization netted approximately $1,200 on this year's Fiesta and Exposition.

The financial success of the event under the management of the Legion establishes a new record. No money has ever before been realized from the event.

Business men were loud in their praises of the manner in which the boys of the Legion conducted the event.

City Drilling Issue Is Up In Torrance

mate of which side is in the majority can be obtained.

On One Side

Simmered down to its essentials, the arguments of those who favor keeping the derricks out of the residence district firmly believe that such prohibition will enhance the value of property in the city to such an extent, by encouraging new buildings and stimulating growth, that it would be poor business for all property owners to allow the drill to turn in the debated area. They plead for the future of the city as a city and not as an oil field, in which community leases would split royalties to lot owners to such an extent that the royalties would not equal the income from the same lots as residence property.

Would Kill Town

It is certain, according to the debaters of this side of the question, that the entrance of oil derricks will drive all business houses and commercial institutions out of business. They assert that the uncertainty as regards oil is keeping hundreds of thousands of dollars out of the city, because investors are unwilling to build in the face of the possibility of death to the city through the encroachment of derricks.

Proponents of drilling in the restricted area maintain that they wish to wait until that area is proven; that they seek only to induce the trustees not to pass a prohibitory ordinance.

The Two Sides

At both meetings it was an argument between men who are pleading for the very life of the city and men who own land here and believe they may make more money if drilling is allowed.

With the request of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce on the one hand and petitions requesting that no prohibitory ordinance be passed on the other hand, the trustees Tuesday night deferred action until the sentiment may be more thoroughly sounded out.

Trustee Gilbert made it plain that the trustees would give more consideration to opinions held by residents who own improved property than to those who have purchased vacant lots for speculation. It was his contention that the owners of improved property will lose more if oil drilling is permitted than those who own vacant lots will lose if drilling is prohibited.

Conservative, thoughtful consideration is merited by this important issue. It should not be decided on the judgment of lease-holders. Property owners should carefully weigh their chances for royalties in case drilling is permitted, and set those figures beside their return from their land in a city of 25,000 or 30,000 inhabitants.

Torrance will be either a big city or a small oil field. Which do you prefer? That's the question.
